Arnold Air Force Base Tennessee

The secret
is out...

Arnold Engineering Development Center (AEDC), Arnold Air Force Base, Tennessee has long been known among the military community as “the best kept secret in the Air Force”.

Not anymore – the secret is out! Most people don’t realize there is an Air Force Base in Tennessee much less the most advanced and largest complex of flight simulation test facilities in the world serving the Department of Defense, NASA, commercial and international customers. AEDC has contributed to the development of nearly every national aerospace program since the 1950s.

AEDC is between Nashville and Chattanooga, roughly in the center of a triangle formed by the cities of Manchester, Tullahoma and Winchester and straddles the border of Coffee and Franklin counties. The base is situated on a 40,000 acre reservation. The industrial or controlled area of the base comprises about 3,600 acres. The 4,000 acre man-made lake, Woods Reservoir, has 75 miles of shoreline and embraces many of the Services Club Arnold leisure activities.

Services Club Arnold is an exclusive area available only to active duty and retired military, National Guard and Reserve military, Civil Service employees within 50 miles of AEDC, AEDC alliance employees, all AEDC personnel, and others as approved by the installation commander.
